

Abstract

A software organization that enables applications for accessing an interface that is exposed by a cache driver for reserving a portion of the cache for application use.